From San Nicolas To The California Light House

Our friend Louis Curiel that is 73 years old walk from the Anker in the Colony to the Light house on the other end of the island. He does this to raise funds to feed the kids in need. This time was very challenging as the roads were under construction, and it rained heavy wetting him up completely down to his sneakers, and you know how hard that is to do, but Louis is not someone that gives up, might have taken a little longer , but he did not give up!

San Nicolas Lost A Hero!

If you ask anyone if they knew Mr. Lucas, they always smile and say " the teacher from Hilario Angela School!" he was loved by so many, and left his positive mark on so many of us, even when he got sick and was in his wheelchair he could not stop helping out and being there. R.I.P my friend i guess god needed you up there to help him out.

We will keep you posted on the funeral dates and everything else from our friend Mr. Lucas.

Burger King San Nicolas Almost Ready!

When we saw the first sign that Burger King San Nicolas was closed, we contacted one of the supervisors right away to find out what's going on, she informed us that they will be remodeling, next question from us was "what's going to happen to the San Nicolas workers?" she informed us that no one lost their job, they were sent to different locations until the remodeling is over. We are happy to inform you that the remodeling is in its final stages, and will open back up real soon. Thank you for investing in San Nicolas.

This modern layout is one of international standards in high end places.

PS: No word yet if they will open back the kids playground.
